

Council of Producers and Distributors of Agrotechnology

+30 YEARS
Supporting U.S. Agrotechnology Since 1987

Based in the Washington, D.C. area, the Council of Producers and Distributors of Agrotechnology (CPDA) is the premier advocate for formulators, distributors and manufacturers of Agrotechnology in the United States. Agrotechnology products include tank-mix adjuvants, inert ingredients, post-patent pesticides and biorationals.

In addition to legislative and regulatory support, members of CPDA have access to educational opportunities and a network of support focused on the issues that impact their operations.

ADVOCACY

CPDA advocates for its members on federal and state issues concerning agrotechnology products. It has built a strong working relationship with the EPA and state regulatory agencies.

EDUCATION

CPDA hosts conferences, workshops and training seminars to educate its members on top issues impacting their business and to provide critical intelligence on industry trends.

COMMUNITY

CPDA is a network of basic inert manufacturers, adjuvant formulators, distributors, retailers, U.S. pesticide formulators, generic non-formulation marketing companies, and affiliates.

CPDA ADJUVANT CERTIFICATION PROGRAM

ENSURING THE INTEGRITY OF ADJUVANTS

The CPDA Adjuvant Certification Program was developed to support product functionality claims, establish minimum guidelines for good product stewardship, and to provide users with valuable information allowing them to make better informed choices of products. CPDA Adjuvant Certification ensures growers that products meet the claims indicated on the label according to a uniform set of standards, and that ingredients used in the product meet EPA regulations for pesticide tank-mix partners.
