Council of Producers and Distributors
of Agrotechnology

(202) 386-7407 info@cpda.com cpda.com

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
May 4, 2022

CPDA Reports 30 Percent Increase in New Members In Past 90 Days

Washington, DC – The Council of Producers and Distributors of Agrochemicals reports nearly a 30 percent increase in new members since the beginning of 2022, leading into its annual Adjuvants and Inerts Conference in Nashville May 18-20.

CPDA President Terry Kippley expressed excitement over signing up many leading companies in the crop protection industry.

"CPDA is a council comprised of key sectors of the crop protection sector, which includes manufacturers and distributors of adjuvants, inert formulations and post-patent pesticides," Kippley said.

"We are expecting even more new members throughout the year," Kippley said, "as recognition grows regarding the importance and unique challenges these companies face and how CPDA can deliver advocacy, provide market intelligence, and foster networking."

New CPDA members include, by category:

Post-Patent
- Atticus, LLC
- Arxada, LLC
- Fine Chemicals
- HELM Agro
- UPL NA Inc.

Adjuvant/Inert
- Meristem Crop Performance
- Miller Chemical and Fertilizer, LLC
- Oro Agri Inc.

Distribution
- WestLink Ag

Packaging
- Cimarron Label
- Lee Container
- Polycon Industries

About CPDA

The Council of Producers and Distributors of Agrotechnology (CPDA) based near Washington DC has been the voice for the generic crop protection industry for 35 years. Nearly 80% of US distribution for the $13 billion crop protection market and approximately 80% of the inert ingredients used in agricultural production in the US are provided by CPDA members. The association members are a network of basic inert manufacturers, adjuvant formulators, biorational product companies, distributors, retailers, US pesticide formulators, and generic crop protection registrants and manufacturers who make their voices heard by working together.

For more information, please visit CPDA.com.

Media Contact
Greg Leaf
Greg@groupleaf.com | (651) 271-2512